COMMERCIAL CLUB MEET

Why Every Business Man in Anadarko Should Join it

PROVE BEYOND DOUBT

That Our Club Needs Reorganizing. Lawton and Hobart Ahead of Us.

We have repeatedly called the attention of our business men to the importance of having a good, working, progressive Commercial Club. This we have not got. A Commercial Club is to a city what the heart is to the human body, if the heart is healthy then the body is all right and able to do its duty and if it is not, then the whole body is unable to do anything. We now have in our city three or four business men looking for locations for different kinds of manufacturing establishments and what is our Commercial Club doing in this matter, absolutely nothing.

At last night's meeting there were only two or three members present. It is true that some of our best business men are members and are doing all in their power to push Anadarko to the front, but two or three men can not do the business of the whole city through the Commercial Club. Now we do not wish to be known or to pose as a kicker, we do want however, a Commercial Club here that is alive to the interest of our city. Lawton and Hobart are very busy in the work they are doing through their Club. They never miss a chance to advertise their cities. When their delegations to the territorial conventions passed through Anadarko they were in special cars decorated so as to advertise their towns. When our delegates got on the train one could tell where they were from, or what their business was. Hobart and Lawton had thousands of bills and dodgers to place in the hands of people anxious to locate in the new country, and the settler not having heard of Anadarko will pass right on through our beautiful city and go to one or the other of these two cities to locate.

Now we have a call in today's paper asking the business men to attend a call meeting tomorrow night to make final arrangements for the celebration August 6th of the anniversary of the opening of this new country to settlement. Every business man in the city should be there. We will expect you, we have a right to think you will assist in this matter. And by a united effort we will have a celebration here that will not only be a credit to Anadarko but one that will bring thousands of people here and they will see our city and its many advantages to fall in love with us and locate in our city.

We have a great deal of wealth here and several enterprises that we are proud of but then we should not be satisfied with our present attainments. We ought to be the best city in the new country and with a proper effort we will be. We should take an active interest in the spending of the $60,000 appropriated by congress for a court house, school houses, waterworks etc, and see that every dollar is economically spent, and that the city gets the benefit of it, and that there are no grafts or steals in this matter.

The Commercial Club could locate eight or ten large manufacturing establishments here this summer and fall if the right effort is put forth.

It seems that our county commissioners and council are doing nothing towards making arrangements to build our court house, school houses etc. We feel sure that any assistance or information the Commercial Club would give them they would appreciate it. There is not a business man in this town who can give one excuse for not being a member of the Commercial Club and helping to build up our city. This being true we will expect to see your name on the list after tomorrow night.

The Fourth.

As the birthday of this great republic, the glorious fourth, approaches it is natural that every one should ask himself the question "Where shall I go and what shall I do?" This is a natural question and strange indeed is the heart and general make up of one to whose mind that question has not presented itself at least once during these latter days of June. The question troubling the people of this community is not "Where can I go?", but rather "How many different places may I attend?" As far as we are aware every city, railway station, post office and crossroads in the new as well as the old portion of the territory will celebrate the coming fourth with appropriate exercises consisting of the usual picnic, parade, speaking, athletic contests, fireworks and circus lemonade. And such should be the case. The glorious fourth should be perpetuated in the hearts of the nation and never be allowed to pass without due celebration. Anadarko had intended to make that day one long to be remembered but after considering the question from all points of view decided to give nothing at all on that day. This determination it reached after learning of the great preparation our neighbors to the south, east and west were working. Anadarko says to her citizens go to Lawton, to the east to the west anywhere you please and enjoy yourself as is fitting on the anniversary of the nation. Anadarko in her magnanimous spirit relinquishes all her rights to that day. Her citizens will scatter to the four winds and help others celebrate and in return will invite them to join us in our grand celebration on the 6th of August. On that day Anadarko will celebrate the first anniversary of the opening of the new country. It asks its neighbors all over the three counties of Comanche, Kiowa and Caddo to join us on that day in our grand ratification which will do justice to the new country.

Where is The American

The British in the midst of all their preparation and stir getting ready for the coronation of Edward seven are asking themselves this question "Where are the Americans?" The Englishman and especially those owning property fronting the route of the coronation procession no doubt had intended to do a big business with their cousins on this side of the big pond and line their pocket with the yellow pieces of the American millionaire. But the American balks for reasons the Britisher can not understand.

Chief of these reasons may be mentioned two. The first of them is the native American cares little for the pomp and display of an English coronation. It is a thing foreign to his mind, nature and environment, one that interests him little. He looks upon the king as a mere human and upon the whole coronation ceremony as a piece of tomfoolery. What the American wants is his moneys worth and he can not see it at the rate view space is now selling for not to mention the exorbitant price of hotel accommodations. This forms the second chief reason. A lady recently wrote to a certain well known hotel enquiring for accommodations during the coming event. In reply to his figures she stated that she did not ask the total cost of the Boer war, but for hotel rates. Travelers from this side are shunning England this year and will spend their money and vacation on the continent. The American does not mind being robbed provided he does not know it, but when he does look out. This fact is as much truth in small things as in great things. It is the principle to which he objects not to the degree to which it is carried.
